We're glad we're not a household name.

At Gander & White, when it comes to household removals we're proud to say we're unique.

A close family business with three generations of expertise and care in the handling of antiques and fine works of art, we have gained the confidence of discriminating families, institutions and interior decorators throughout the world.

Each commission, large or small, receives the Gander & White personal touch and attention, as quality not quantity guides our thinking. It's not surprising perhaps that we still remain known to only the discerning few.
